The Nunnery - facts

- Built in 1823, The Nunnery mansion house is one of the Island's finest buildings and was converted from a private residence into the Isle of Man International Business School in 1999.
- The architectural style of The Nunnery is known as "Strawberry Hill Gothic". It was designed by John Pinch, father and son, who were responsible for much of Regency Bath.
- The house is built of Manx stone quarried from a site near Old Castletown Road.
- The home of the Isle of Man International Business School has never actually been a nunnery, although The Estate has included both a monastery and a nunnery in its past.
- With its rolling lawns, historic buildings and acres of woodland, The Nunnery Estate is an ideal venue for film-making.
- At least four motion pictures have been filmed on The Estate in recent years, including: Stiff Upper Lips (1996), Relative Values (1999), Chromophobia (2004) and Stormbreaker (2005).
