NEWS RELEASE – 04.06.07

IBS to hold MBA Open Evening

Anybody interested in finding out more about the Executive MBA programme at the Isle of Man International Business School is invited to attend an open event from 6pm to 7.30pm on Wednesday 20th June at the Nunnery.

Head of Sales and Marketing, Tiffany Jacobsen said, “

“This is a perfect opportunity for those considering embarking on an EMBA programme to gather information, view our facilities and discuss their options in a relaxed and sociable setting. We hope to have a number of current and alumni students present to give prospective students a greater insight in to studying for an EMBA at the Business School and to explain the benefits of studying locally.”

The EMBA at The IBS is franchised and validated by Liverpool John Moores University, the academic partner of The IBS. The programme is an internationally recognised postgraduate qualification for managers from all sectors of business. It covers topical business subjects as well as the fundamentals of an organisation including; finance, operations, strategy, marketing, information management, projects and change. The programme is designed to add value to individuals and their organisation and to enable professional and personal development.

The next intake will be September 2007 and the programme is available to study part-time over three years or full-time in a year. Entry requirements are usually a degree or equivalent professional qualification combined with at least three year’s appropriate experience; however applications are welcomed from those with substantial managerial experience in lieu of formal qualifications.

Please notify The IBS if you plan to attend the open evening by calling 693709 or emailing enquiries@ibs.ac.im More information about academic and professional qualifications at The IBS can be found at www.ibs.ac.im

Those interested in other programmes taught at The IBS are also welcome to attend in order to collect information and take a tour.
